Call for selection of 45 participants

International Workshop of Urban planning and landscape project "Ideas and projects for the rural landscape. Scenarios for tourism in Marmilla" 19-29 May 2008

Aims and contents

Workshop aims are exploration of ways and meanings to project landscape in a context of Sardinia island characterized by low population density, depopulation, small urban structures with significant historical values and a connective rural landscape, everything with strong characters of local identity. According to the Regional Landscape Plan (Piano Paesaggistico Regionale) and to the planning of the Union of Municipalities of Marmilla, the workshop propose three projects themes: rehabilitation of historical centres, landscape for living, land art/landmark - new signs for landscape of history and nature and new signs and architectures for tourism.

Participants will be confronted with these issues, trying to investigate the ways in which tourism can activate processes for sustainable development in these contexts. The initiative will take place in Villanovaforru on may 19 - 25 and in Cagliari on may 26- 29.

Official Languages: Italian and English.

Participation in the workshop and entry requirements

This call aims at selecting a total of 45 workshop participants, Italian or foreigners holding a university degree in Civil Engineering or Architectural Engineering, Architecture or similar degrees, plus a few selected undergraduates nearing graduation, with experiences in these fields.

Participants will be selected on the basis of their CVs and informations attached to their application. Applications forms can be downloaded from: <http://people.unica.it/labmar08>.
