

Discussing & researching youth cultures: today and yesterday

This is a research-oriented seminar organised within the postgraduate course 'Theory and Methods of Social Research', Degree Scheme Politics, Society and Territory, and is meant to stimulate a debate on the significance of youth cultures across contexts and times and to launch the discussions within the 'Focus Giovani' of CIRD.

*Ben Gook is an Alexander von Humboldt Postdoctoral Fellow at Humboldt University, Berlin. His work draws on sociology, history, anthropology, cultural studies, literary studies and film studies. He is recipient of the Philippa Maddern Memorial Essay Prize for best essay in Emotions: History, Culture, Society (2017).

Bjørn Schiermer is Professor at the Department of Sociology and Human Geography at the University of Oslo. His sociological interest is equally divided between theoretical work and empirical interest in youth culture. His article on late modern hipsters is the second most read piece of Acta Sociologica.
